Welcome

This Product Disclosure Statement (PDS) is an important legal document that contains statements and information concerning, and Terms and Conditions applicable to, Foreign Exchange – Forward Exchange Contract (FEC). The information in this PDS can help you:

- decide if this product meets your needs
- compare this product with similar products.

The information in this PDS is general in nature and does not consider your particular objectives, financial situation or needs. Before you purchase a product from us, you should read the PDS and any other documents we give you.

When you acquire this product you are entering into a contract with Suncorp-Metway Limited. This means that you can only deal with us in relation to this product.

Product Overview

When an importer or exporter agrees to a sale or purchase of goods in a foreign currency, an exchange risk may arise. If the exchange rate moves, the amount of currency to be paid or received will be affected.

Importers and exporters who require certainty about the exchange rate on their future transactions commonly use Forward Exchange Contracts. They can 'lock-in' an exchange rate to an agreed settlement date. Irrespective of subsequent exchange rate movements, the agreed exchange rate will be applied when the foreign currency FEC transaction takes place.

We are not obliged to sell or buy back this product before it expires and it can not be traded on a market with anyone else.

You will need an approved Suncorp credit facility with us before you transact a Foreign Exchange FEC covered by this PDS. Credit facilities should be discussed with a Suncorp lending representative. You should carefully consider the applicable fees and charges and terms associated with the credit facility.

For any terms you do not understand, please refer to 'Some terms explained' at the end of this document.

What is a Forward Exchange Contract (FEC)?

The market convention when banks quote exchange rates is to quote 'Value Spot' (or spot rate). Value Spot is the settlement date for a foreign exchange transaction whereby settlement will occur in two business days time. These days must be business days in both of the countries of the currencies being exchanged and also in the United States.

An FEC is a binding agreement between two parties to exchange one currency for another, at an agreed rate and on an agreed date, that is more than 2 business days after the date of the agreement (ie not Value Spot).

An FEC:

- has an exchange rate which is fixed at the time when the deal is agreed
- helps you manage your exposure to exchange rate fluctuations because you can 'lock-in' an FEC for a fixed settlement date and fixed exchange rate in the future
- needs a Suncorp credit facility in place
- can be 'optional' so the customer has the flexibility of settling on any day between two fixed dates (e.g. the FEC may specify a fixed date in three months time with the option to deliver anytime in the last month). You nominate that you want an optional contract, and the fixed dates, at the time the FEC is agreed.

When you arrange an FEC, you will be quoted a Forward Exchange Rate (or an 'outright' rate).

Forward Exchange rate

A Forward Exchange Rate is the rate when one currency is exchanged for another currency at a future date. This rate is calculated by adjusting the current spot rate by a Forward Margin. This margin is commonly referred to as "points".

Forward margin

A Forward Exchange Rate is not a forecast of what the spot rate will be at a future date.

A forward margin is set by the bank to calculate the forward exchange rate. It is determined by the difference between the two currencies interest rates for the term of the forward exchange contract.

Effectively it is priced to compensate the buyer of the higher yielding currency for extra interest that could have been earned between the spot date and the forward date.

Thus for AUD/USD, if Australian interest rates are higher than in the US, the margin will be negative and subtracted from the spot rate. Conversely if the Australian interest rates are lower than the US, the margin will be positive and added to the spot rate.

Term of FEC

The term of the FEC transaction will be agreed between us and is for a fixed duration. The duration of the term will also be subject to the term of your Suncorp credit facility. The term of the FEC transaction:

- is not subject to any minimum time period;
- can not exceed the term of your credit facility (see the section “Credit Facility below for more information).

Credit facility

You will need an approved Suncorp credit facility with us before you can transact a FEC covered by this PDS. If you have insufficient funds to settle a transaction, Suncorp may draw on your credit facility to settle or cover it. If you are unable to meet your obligations under the credit facility, Suncorp may exercise rights against you under the terms of the credit facility.

Credit facilities should be discussed with your Suncorp lending representative and you should carefully consider the applicable fees and charges and terms associated with the credit facility. These will be fully disclosed in the relevant facility documentation.

You should read the credit facility documentation carefully to understand your rights and obligations and also Suncorp’s rights and obligations under the terms of the credit facility.

Examples of Forward Exchange Contracts (FECs)

Any rates used in these examples are for illustrative purposes only and may not reflect current market rates.

Example 1

ABC Farms are importing an irrigator from the US. The irrigator is due for delivery in four months and full payment of USD 150,000 is due in three months. In the past, ABC Farms have always used Value Spot for their foreign exchange transactions; however these have been for small transactions. The new equipment is a large cost for ABC Farms and they are concerned the AUD/USD exchange rate could move unfavourably, resulting in the irrigator costing more than expected.

They already have a credit facility in place and have contacted their Treasury Representative who quotes them:

a current spot rate of	1.0004
3 month Forward Margin	-0.0078 (-78 points)
FEC rate of	0.9926

ABC Farms decide to go ahead with the FEC. They have agreed to buy USD 150,000 and sell AUD 151,118.28 (USD 150,000/0.9926) on a fixed date in three months.

Three months later, the spot rate is 0.9600. As ABC Farms have an FEC in place, they buy USD 150,000 and sell AUD 151,118.28 at the agreed rate of 0.9926.

If ABC Farms had not locked in the FEC when they did, and if they had to deal at today's spot rate of 0.9600, the irrigator would have cost them AUD 156,250.00, an extra AUD 5131.72.

Example 2

XYZ Exports have just signed a deal for a shipment to New Zealand. Their goods will be shipped in three months and they expect to receive NZD 55,000 within two days of the shipment leaving. The AUD/NZD exchange rate has been rising unfavourably for XYZ Exports.

They have always used FECs to protect their income against unfavourable exchange rate movements. After agreeing the shipment terms with the New Zealand buyer, XYZ Exports' accountant, Mr Stewart, contacts his Treasury Representative who quotes him:

a current spot rate	1.2546
3 month Forward Margin	-0.0017 (-17 points)
FEC rate of	1.2529

Mr Stewart confirms he will accept the FEC rate.

Three months later, the AUD/NZD spot rate is 1.2200. XYZ Exports sell NZD 55,000 and buy AUD 43,898.16 at the agreed rate of 1.2529.

In this case, XYZ Exports would have received AUD 1,183.81 more if they had taken today's spot rate of 1.2200 to receive AUD 45,081.97 and not locked in to an FEC.

Special Features

Extension of a FEC

The Bank may consider requests to extend a Forward Exchange Contract using the historical rate on a case by case basis where there is a genuine underlying trade related purpose. The Bank gives no undertaking to approve such requests. All HRR requests will be subject to our credit approval process and you may be required to provide information to support your request. Deviation from prevailing market rates involves accounting, credit and proprietary risks. You should make your own assessment and obtain your own advice regarding the risks associated with HRR extensions and their suitability for you.

Extensions require approval by us

For example, using the ABC Farms importer example from above, the irrigator was delayed for a month because of supply problems in the United States. ABC Farms can ask us to extend the existing FEC for another month. After we have approved the extension ABC Farms are quoted:

a current spot rate	0.9960
original FEC rate	0.9926
an adjusted FEC rate	0.9896

The adjusted FEC rate is 30 points worse than the original FEC rate of 0.9926. The 30 points reflect the Forward Margin for the additional month plus an adjustment for the difference in cash flow (the FEC is 'out of the money').

Pre-delivery of a FEC

A FEC can be partly or fully 'pre-delivered' before the value date. A pre-delivered contract can be 'in the money' or 'out of the money', creating a difference in cash flow. We will adjust your FEC rate to reflect this difference in cash flow.

For example, using XYZ Exports from the example above, the New Zealand buyer called a week later and asked if the shipment could be sent a month earlier. XYZ Exports agreed to change the shipment arrangements.

Two months later, the shipment leaves as scheduled and XYZ Exports receive NZD 55,000. The existing FEC is due to mature in one month. Mr Stewart tells his Treasury Representative that XYZ Exports needs to deliver the NZD on their FEC early. He is quoted:

a current spot rate	1.2200
original FEC rate	1.2529
an adjusted FEC rate	1.2539

The adjusted FEC rate is ten points worse than the original FEC rate of 1.2529. The 10 points reflect the Forward Margin for the remaining unused term of the contract plus an adjustment for the difference in cash flow. (the FEC is 'out of the money').

Optional period

An FEC may be entered into with a period during which it may be pre-delivered without the FEC rate changing. This period is termed an 'optional period'. An FEC with an optional period is one where the contract rate may be used without adjustment and when you can expect a currency delivery date within a time period or range of dates. The optional period is set for the range dates and if payment is received at any time within that period the FEC is early delivered without a rate adjustment. For example, you might have a six-month FEC where you can pre-deliver anytime in the last month without an early delivery adjustment to the FEC rate.

The optional period does not release you from your obligation under the FEC.

What are the benefits of a FEC transaction?

Exchange rates are volatile. There is a risk that exchange rates may move between the date you enter into the transaction and the value date.

The benefits of a FEC includes protection in the event of unfavourable movements in exchange rates between the time when you locked in the exchange rate and the settlement date. A FEC provides greater cash flow certainty.

What are the disadvantages of a FEC transaction?

Once you have agreed your rate with your Treasury Representative you will not be able to take advantage of any favourable movements in exchange rates for this transaction.

What are the significant risks of a FEC transaction?

Risks	Consequences
FEC exchange rate is worse than the prevailing spot rate at value date ('out of the money').	Loss of opportunity to buy/sell at today's better rate
FEC is 'out of the money' and the contract amount is more than required. You need to buy/sell the excess amount but the prevailing spot rate is worse than the FEC rate.	<ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Loss of opportunity to buy/sell at today's better rate2. Actual cash loss because of the differential between the FEC rate and the prevailing market rate for the surplus amount
FEC is 'in the money' and the contract amount is less than required. You need to buy/sell the additional currency amount at the prevailing spot rate, which is worse than the FEC rate.	Actual cash loss because of the differential between the FEC rate and the prevailing market rate for the shortfall

Other Risks

Foreign currency markets are volatile and there is a risk that exchange rates will move adversely, commonly called "Currency risk". There is a risk that you could incur a loss to the extent that these move against you.

Counterparty risk also exists in a Foreign Exchange FEC transaction. This is the risk that a counterparty to a transaction may be unable to meet its obligations. Suncorp-Metway Ltd is the counterparty to your Foreign Exchange FEC and is an Approved Deposit taking Institution and subject to prudential regulation. Our financial position and other corporate information can be understood by referring to the information and documents at the "About Us" section on our website www.suncorpbank.com.au.

We are not obliged to sell or buy back this product before the settlement date and it can not be traded on a market with anyone else.

How settlement takes place

The AUD or foreign currency that you or another party are paying to us must be cleared funds before you can transact with us. Our AUD payments will be made by electronic transfer. Our foreign currency payments will be made by electronic transfer.

To make a foreign currency payment, you will need to fax, email or send in any other agreed electronic form your signed instructions to Treasury Operations.

Remuneration and other benefits paid to the Representatives

Representatives employed in the Treasury area of the Suncorp Group receive an annual salary, which is based on a number of general factors including industry experience, location, qualifications and complexity of role. In addition, a Treasury Representative may be paid a bonus payment based on a number of factors including the Representative's individual performance. However, Representatives do not receive incentives, commissions or other payments based solely on individual sales or the advice provided by the Representative. At any point in time, it is not possible to determine if a Treasury Representative will receive a bonus or to quantify it.

Both of the above set out the terms and conditions that apply to the Foreign Exchange transactions we enter into with you and generally govern the relationship between you and Suncorp. You should also read the Suncorp terms and conditions below that also apply.

You can ask us for copies of these documents. We recommend you read the documents and that you seek your own independent legal advice.

You need to sign the document and return it to Treasury Operations before you can enter into a foreign exchange transaction. You may also need to satisfy other requirements that we may have before you can enter into a foreign exchange transaction.

Except where it contravenes a law or the ePayments Code, provided that we send it to your last known email or postal address, it is taken to have been received on the date it would have been delivered in the ordinary course. If you detect an error or believe a transaction was not authorised you must notify us as soon as you become aware of the transaction.

We are not responsible for any loss you may suffer due to errors, inaccuracies or omissions in relation to authorised but mistaken instructions given to us for the operation of your account and/or product.

Some transactions are governed by the ePayments Code. We will comply with the requirements of any law, code or scheme applying to any disputed transaction.

Confirmations

We will send you a confirmation of transactions made and the terms applying to same via fax, email or in any other electronic form where agreed from time to time. The confirmation will be conclusive evidence of the transaction made and terms applying to same unless you advise us otherwise, within 24 hours of receipt of the confirmation.

If you advise us of any incorrect information contained in the confirmation within 24 hours of receipt of the confirmation we will proceed to investigate and attempt to resolve the disputed information. In doing this, we will comply with the requirements of any law, code or scheme applying to any disputed transaction.

Losses and errors

An unauthorised transaction, that is a transaction you do not authorise, does not include any transaction carried out by you or by anyone performing a transaction with your knowledge and consent.

Where you do not authorise a transaction, you will not be responsible for losses, which are:

- (a) caused by fraudulent or negligent conduct of our staff or agents of ours or companies involved in networking arrangements or merchants or their agents or employees; or
- (b) losses that are caused by the same transaction being incorrectly debited more than once to the same account.

Where it is clear that you have not contributed to any loss caused by unauthorised transactions you will not be liable.

When you are liable for losses

You will be liable for losses resulting from unauthorised transactions where on the balance of probability we can prove that you contributed to the losses through fraud. We are not responsible for any loss suffered if the account numbers, BSB or amounts of transactions you authorise are incorrect or invalid or if you authorise transactions more than once in error.

You must check the details of each transfer and each transaction in a payment and ensure that the accounts, BSB and amounts are correct. Once you authorise transactions to be processed we will not be able to stop, withdraw, suspend or delete the transfer, change any details or recover the funds.

If a transfer is unable to be processed by the receiving financial institution, the funds will be returned to your account. This may take approximately 5 days but can take longer depending on the other financial institution.

If an electronic transfer to another financial institution fails, it is possible that the funds returned to us and subsequently returned to you, may be less than the funds originally transferred due to failure fees charged by the other financial institution or market movements in exchange rates if the return of funds involves an exchange.

Overseas transactions

Transactions processed in foreign currency may be converted to Australian dollars using the exchange rate specified by your Treasury Representative at the time of processing.

We will not be responsible for any losses as a result of fluctuations in exchange rates between when the overseas transaction was effected or requested and when the exchange rate was applied.

If we have reasonable grounds for thinking that your overseas transaction breaks any law applying at the time, we can refuse to process it.
