

Asset allocation

Asset allocation refers to the proportion of your money that's invested (or 'allocated') in each asset class. For example, you could have 100% of your money allocated to cash, or it could be divided among cash, fixed interest, property or shares.